

GREAT NEWS!

On 6 October a law change was made by the NZ Parliament adding EdAid to the list of well-known charities named as approved donee organisations in Schedule 32 of the Income Tax Act 2007. The change is backdated to the 2008-2009 tax year.

This means that companies can donate up to any amount of their nett income on a fully deductible basis.

Individual donors can donate any amount of their nett income and they will receive a 33 1/3% rebate.

The law change makes no difference to Trusts who can continue to make distributions of current year income on a tax exempt basis.

We are now sending tax receipts to donors who have received acknowledgement letters. You may wish to send us the refund.

Please contact us for further information, and spread this exciting news.

Where is the school?

On the map below you will see a town called Ngara on the border of Rwanda and Tanzania. This is where the school is being built. To date three double classroom blocks have been built and a double laboratory Science Block. An administration building; and a Library that has been built by a family from this area in memory of their parents. Such is their passion for education that they want every young person to have the opportunity they were given.

The visit from the NZ Team in June/July this year.

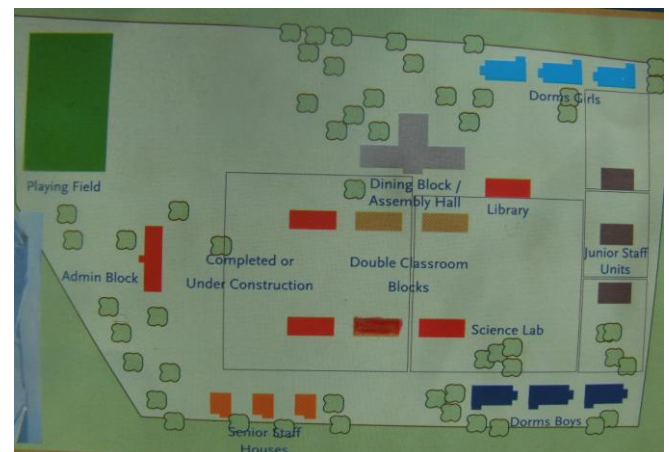

While there we completed the Science Block which needed finishing work including cupboard doors for the science rooms.
